THE SUNDAY OF THE POLICE. - Every poli man puts a black mark around Sunday, to indicate his sense that, of the seven days in The respectable portion of the community ttend religious services, and need not the over-sight of the police. But the closing of work shops on Saturday night is like the ssue of a license to the large class who are isposed to use and abuse a license, and it promenades and social, convivial knots of these, of a Sunday, which require, and do not fail to secure, the espionage of the po-liceman. Hence come babblings, brawls, cases of disturbance, of assault and battery and the long array of "drunks." The police station is generally a quiet place, say, up to four o'clock Sunday afterrnoon. Occasionally before that hour an officer brings in an offender against peace, propriety or some person, as a comrade belos back to the rear a wounded soldier from the skirmish line before the battle begins. But after that hour there is generally a steady tide of battered, pugnacious, and get consoled and happy after the lapse of two or three hours, when, as with one consent, but not with "one voice," they tune up and sing, each a different "hymn," and for

It was patented August

25th, 1863, and has been adopted by the Fire Departments of New York, Rochester, Trey, Buffalo, Hartford, Chicago and St. Louis, and will probably be introduced here, since the experiment made a very favorable impression on the Engineer and said Committee. We give a description of the nomit and a statement of what it claims to do.

This invention consists substantially of a mmon nomle, having a number of small levers pivoted around it, near the outer end. These levers extend about two inches beyond the end of the nossle, and are bent inwards at a slightly acute angle, resembling the figure seven,-the part corresponding to the short leg of the figure is wedge shaped, the thin edge being nearest the aperture of the nozzle. The other ends of these levers below where they are pivoted) are connected with the collar in such a manner that when the collar is revolved one-eighth of a evolution to the right, the wedge-shaped part of half the levers, or aprenders, is projected into the stream, dividing it into a number of triangular streams. These streams, after leaving the nozzle a few feet, become a dense mass of flying spray. Any intermediate degree of spread can be given to the stream, according as the Domestic Cloths

PROSPECTUS FOR 1866

The new year upon which we are about growth, prosperity and greatness unexampled in the history of the world. After four years of desperate conflict, the prin-ciples which the LEADER, in common with the patriotic citizens and soldiers of the ubs, from Liverpool, 9th, via Queenstown country, has always smnounced and de-fended, have triumphed, and the war for the Union and Freedom has ended in victory and peace. Secession and slavery have both been crushed, and our Republic re-united and regenerated, enters upon a new and glorious career. The future is full of the promise of greatness to our nation and of prosperity to its citizens. And yet the crisis of our danger is not passed. The context has only been transrred from the military to the political arena. The weapons are ballots instead of bullets, the pen instead of the sword.
The spirit of accession is yet alive. The great work of reconstructing the relations of the Southern States to the Union, so rights to all its citizens guaranteed, is yet to be performed—a work which for its immense importance and gigantic diffi-culties is only paralleled by that which we have just concluded. In this most cri-tical and important period—in the midst of these great events-no man, rich or poor, can afford to be without a news-paper. It is an article of prime necessity in every household. Without it a man is half a century behind the age.

The Cleveland LEADER enters upon the twenty-second year of its existence with the brightest of prospects, and with a more widely extended and well-deserved popularity than at any previous period in its history. Its principles and objects have always been fearlessly avowed and boldly adverted. They are the permetter of advocated. They are the perpetuity of the Union; the maintenance of Preedom the establishment of Equal Rights to all men; and the advancement of the ma-terial, mental and moral condition of the Improvements.

During the past year the unexampled prosperity of the LEADER has enabled its proprietors to introduce improvements which render it still more worthy the support of its large and increasing circle nlarged, the total increase in size being bout seven columns, thus at once accommodating the advertising pressure upon its columns, and giving much more space to news and miscellaneous reading matter.

It is now as large as any paper in the State, and larger than any outside of Cinbowels. On the first of October it appeared in a
